Report: Awareness Program on Voting System by College of Education, Nagaon, in Borchapori Gaon, Morigaon

Introduction:

On [13th of March 2024], College of Education, Nagaon organized an awareness program on the voting system in collaboration with the local administration, held at Borchapori Gaon in Morigaon district. The program aimed to educate and empower residents of the village about the importance of voting, electoral procedures, and civic responsibilities. This report provides an overview of the awareness program, including its objectives, activities, and impact.

Objectives:

The awareness program on the voting system had the following objectives:

- To raise awareness about the significance of participating in democratic elections and exercising the right to vote.
- To educate residents about the electoral process, including voter registration, polling procedures, and the role of election officials.
- To encourage voter registration and active participation in the upcoming elections, thereby strengthening the democratic process and promoting civic engagement.

Event Highlights:

The awareness program on the voting system included a series of informative and interactive activities:

1. Information Sessions:

Knowledgeable speaker faculty members from the College of Education Dr. Mithun Das, Assistant Professor Art & Drama and Biplob Mahanta, Assistant Professor, Health & Physical Education delivered informative sessions on the electoral process, voting rights, and the importance of democratic participation. They explained the significance of every vote and encouraged residents to exercise their franchise responsibly. Local government officials namely Md. Moniruddin (Gaon Pradhan), two members of Gaon Panchayat namely Md. Abdul Wahab and Md. Amrajul Islam were also present in the awareness campaign. They actively collaborated with Professors of College of Education and given both oral as well as written promise to actively cooperate with the initiatives of College of Education, Nagaon.

2. Role Plays and Demonstrations:

Role plays and live demonstrations were conducted to simulate the voting process and familiarize participants with the procedures followed during elections. Volunteers acted as election officials, guiding participants through voter registration, polling booth setup, ballot casting, and result tabulation.

3. Interactive Discussions:

Interactive discussions were facilitated to address participants' questions, concerns, and misconceptions about the voting system. Topics included voter eligibility criteria, electoral roll verification, electronic voting machines (EVMs), voter identification, and polling station accessibility.

4. Distribution of Informational Materials:

Informational materials such as pamphlets, brochures, and posters containing essential details about the voting process, election dates, polling stations, and voter rights were distributed among participants. These materials served as valuable resources for reference and further dissemination of information.

5. Community Engagement Activities:

Community engagement activities, including street plays, poster exhibitions, and door-to-door campaigns, were organized to reach out to a wider audience and promote voter awareness and registration. Volunteers engaged with community members, emphasizing the importance of electoral participation in shaping the future of the village and the nation.

Impact and Outcomes:

The awareness program on the voting system yielded several positive outcomes:

- Increased awareness and understanding among residents of Borchapori Gaon about the electoral process and their rights and responsibilities as voters.
- Enhanced participation in voter registration drives, leading to an increase in the number of registered voters in the village.
- Strengthened community engagement and commitment to democratic values, evidenced by active discussions and interactions during the program.

Conclusion:

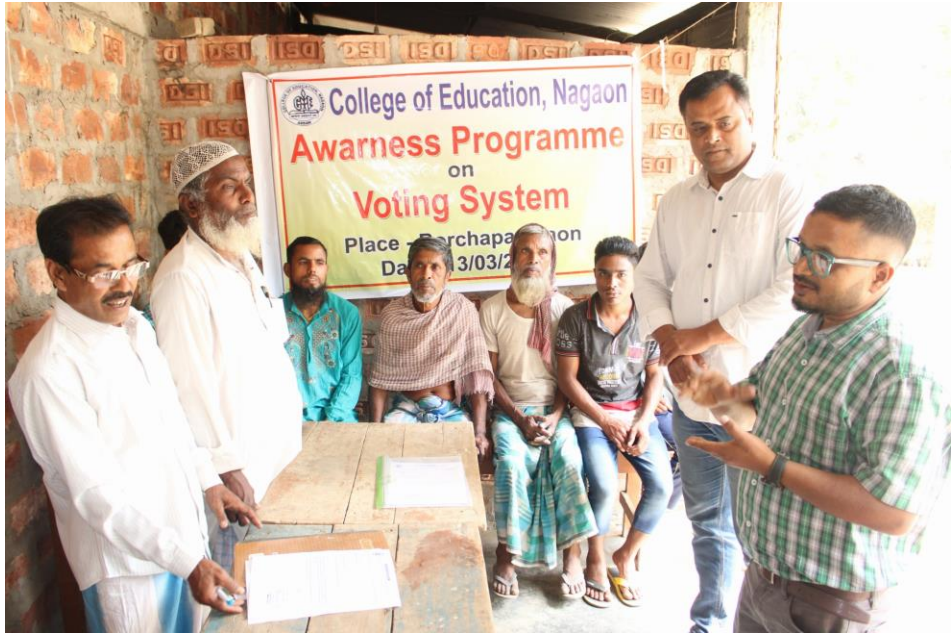

The awareness program on the voting system organized by the College of Education, Nagaon, in collaboration with the local administration, was a resounding success in empowering residents of Borchapori Gaon with knowledge and awareness about the electoral process. By fostering civic engagement and promoting voter participation, the program contributed to the advancement of democracy and democratic values in the community.

Acknowledgments:

The success of the awareness program was made possible by the collaborative efforts of the organizing committee, Dr. Mithun Das and Biplab Mahanta, Assistant Professors of College of Education, government officials like Gaon Pradhan and members of Gaon Panchayat, volunteers, and community members. Their dedication and commitment to promoting voter awareness and civic engagement are commendable.
