PREFACE

Research plays a significant role in the field of education. It primarily aims at systematic investigation of educational problems and tries to provide possible solutions to those problems. The impact of educational research on society is worth mentioning. Firstly, research has a strong impact on teaching that enables a teacher to have a reflective look at this practice and acquire the ability to constantly develop their skills. However, the benefits are not only confined to teachers but also the students and the society at large.

Research trends in education is a pioneer start up by College of Education, Nagaon as an attempt to fulfill the gaps created in the fields of education due to the complexities of the modern world. Its first volume was published in October 2022 where research articles based on educational issues and problems were focused. The first volume received a highly positive response from the educational community. This year we are coming up with our 2nd volume of Research Trends in Education.

The Volume II is a collection of different research articles that enlightens some burning issues of the modern world of education. The book covers a handful of teacher's problems like job satisfaction level, occupational stress, teacher's interest. Apart from focusing on teachers, the book caters to the needs and issues of students that deal with today's latest trends. Topics like internet influence or social media influence on different aspects of a student's life has also been included in the book. Problems of learning English, academic performance of students, Value Education, Utilization of Library Resources, Social Awareness among Rural Women, Fruits of actions in Mimansa Philosophy, Physical Education after Covid Period etc. are among other research articles that have been included in the book. Attitude of Post Graduate Students towards total quality management in education is also included in this Book.

The latest educational policy i.e. NEP 2020 is primarily focused in one of the articles of this volume. The second volume is a collective effort of different researchers and educationist that build a strong foundation for a better academic future of the students, teachers and other community members.

I am thankful to all the authors who have contributed their highly valuable articles and papers that would create a significant impact in the field of education.

I am grateful to Child Development Society, Nagaon for their support in publishing the Book.

I also express my sincere thanks to Birikh Publication for their support in printing our Book on time.
